

trees are still built one after another; the work inside one tree is shared